First Friday Art Walks

The Aberdeen Art Center and other downtown businesses promote a monthly Art Walk. As part of the Art Walk we like to offer artist demonstrations and live music; usually about 5-8 PM at the center. If you are interested in participating it's free, and 100% of your sales that day are yours to keep.

Visit the Library by Appointment Only

Library Use Appointments must be made at least one business day or up to one week in advance by calling the library : #360-289-3919. Telephones are answered during library open hours. Appointments are for 30 minutes to browse the library or to use the computers.

Teri McDougall, of Aberdeen, poses with the giant razor clam that stood in front of the Executive Villa (now Sharkey's). The whereabouts of this carved, 800-lb., wood clam are unknown. According to Kelly Calhoun of the Museum of the North Beach, the clam was donated by Tommer Construction and stood as an iconic image of Ocean Shores from about 1960 to December 1971. The clam disappeared from its perch and most of the articles from the time suggest that city utility employees were the culprits. Local legend says that it is buried in the sand somewhere and only a clamdigger pure of heart may pry it from its lair. (Photo courtesy the Museum of the North Beach)

Anthony Robinson, of Native Beach Accessories, stands next to the giant razor clam he carved with a chainsaw from an old growth cedar log. Robinson estimates that the new clam weighs about 800 lbs., roughly the same as the older clam statue. The clam was commissioned by Patricia Wright of the Ocean Shores Beautification Committee as part of the 50th anniversary celebration of the city's incorporation in 1970. This new statue will be placed somewhere in the City of Ocean Shores sometime in the near future. According to Wright, the site most likely for the clam is the median park in front of the Shilo on Ocean Shores Boulevard. An unveiling will be announced soon. How fun to see a picture of Ocean Shores Canals looking a lot like The Louisiana Bayou!
