President's Message

When I was elected AAOS president a few months ago, I knew it would mean chairing some meetings, leading us to greater involvement in the community and making sure our big events would be run well. What I didn't realize is that I would get to work with a bunch of superstars.

We are launching a revised and renewed summer Arts and Crafts Festival. It's going really well. We just got a $33,000 grant from the City of Ocean Shores hotel tax fund and we have a team of superstars, some old and some new, who are putting this refreshed festival together.

It all starts with registrations and new member Karen Fox has hit a grand slam. She manages the registration process. In the past few years we struggled to fill the big room at the convention center. This year we have the big room filled, the smaller hall filled, the Grand hallway filled and several booths out on the parking lot.

Longer term member Vicki Garrett is a website superstar. She has redone our website which has helped with recruiting all those artists for the festival. Another longer term member Sharon Gochoel, is another superstar and is lending her organizational talents to the task of making all these artists feel welcome.

Superstar volunteer members Kathy Baker and Lesli Zielke are assisting me in overall management of the festival and Lesli is also heading up our volunteer recruitment team. We already have 30 volunteers and the Festival is still 4 months away.

Mark Simon (aka "Moda Mark") has put together a superstar list of musicians for the festival and superstar new member, Susie Malcolm has a fully developed children's program for the festival. Superstar Tom Baker is heading up our logistics team at the Convention Center.

Speaking of superstars, local artist Jade Black did our Festival poster which you can see elsewhere in this newsletter and Lesli, Mark and Susie have worn out a lot of shoe leather putting up posters and rack cards all over town.

There are lots of others helping out. It is a real team effort and it is a team of superstar volunteers. I am humbled to be working with such a great team. Send me an email if you want to join this great team. See you at the festival in September.

Director of the 2023
Arts and Crafts Festival*

Featured Artist of the Month
Sue Lowatchie

Sue Lowatchie is this month's Artist of the Month. She was a Surgical Nurse and part of the Surgical Service Department since 1986. Sue and her husband, Frank moved from Ellensburg to Ocean Shores to retire in the Fall of 2017. This is when the inner passion for creating art came alive for her.

She gets inspiration for many of her paintings from the living sea and the timeless ever changing beauty of the ocean beaches and its surroundings. The challenge is capturing such beauty.

Sue enjoys working with alcohol inks, watercolors, oils and lately fiber. This creative journey is a blast for her and it is far from over.

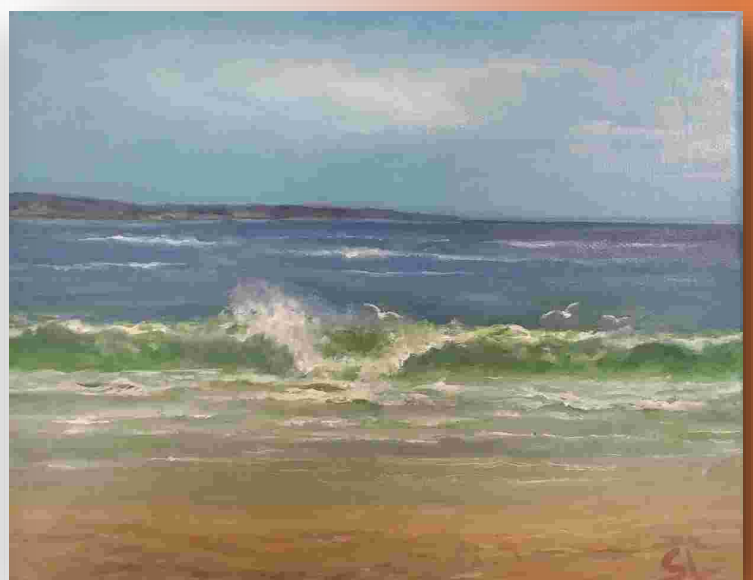

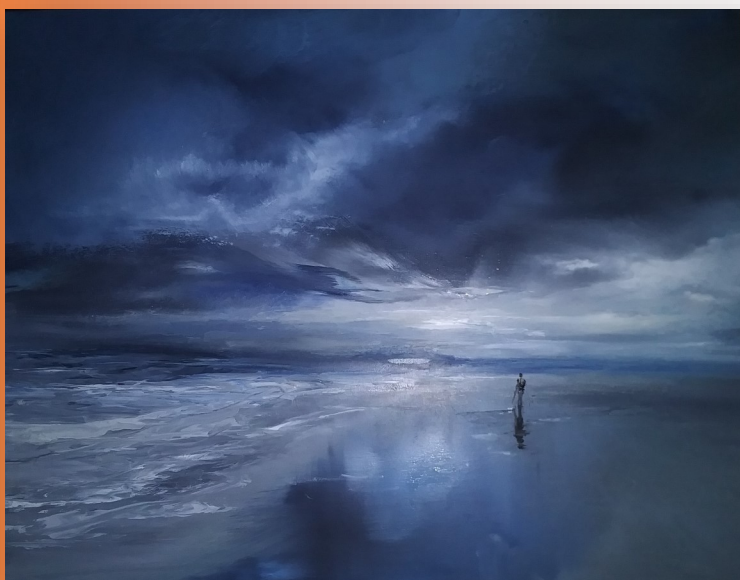

Although Sue has no formal training or schooling, she is proof that if you have the desire to create art you can.

She has been part of the Grays Harbor College Fall Gala and will again be participating at this year's Art Splash Studio Tour the 2nd weekend in August.

Sue's beautiful work can be found at the Alder Grove Gallery in Aberdeen. She is a member of the Harbor Art Guild and loves being involved in the many Plein Air artistic events found all over Grays Harbor. Contact Sue at: suelowatchie@outlook.com

Art in the Library

Terry is in his 70's. He started painting about 10 years ago teaching himself by watching Bob Ross YouTube videos. He's worked with oils and acrylics. He mostly uses acrylics these days. Two years ago he got into woodworking, making his own frames for his paintings as well as for other artists. He also combines his woodworking with his paintings to make a unique frame for them. He has sold some of his paintings so they are for sale if you're interested.

Thursday May 18th 12:00pm - 1:30pm

At 12:30 pm on May 18, 1980, National Guard helicopter pilot Mike Cairns flew beneath the ash cloud and into the crater of the Mt. St. Helens volcanic eruption. In the days ahead, as Mike and his crew flew search & rescue missions, they documented the devastation with hundreds of photographs. Three of the Mt. St. Helens rescue pilots and five crew members were awarded the Valley Forge Cross which is the National Guard's highest award for heroism. Mike was one of the 3 pilots who received the award, Mike will be sharing his experience and his photos. We invite you to come with or without a Brown-Bag lunch. The library will provide coffee, tea, and water.

Lobby Display Case

Art in the Library

Mike has been making pictures out of different types of wood for the last 35 years. He still enjoys it and feels it brings out his creativity. The pictures are made using many different wood pieces, cut out, shaped and glued to a base, using their natural colors for contrast. No stain is ever used. A coat of clear lacquer is applied to each picture which protects the wood and helps it retain its natural color. This type of art is called intarsia and has been around for many centuries.

Computer Class

Wednesday May 17th 9:30am - 10:30am

This month's computer class will be about the basic suite of Microsoft Office; Word, PowerPoint, and Excel, learn about the strengths and commonalities. Seats are limited, register ahead at the desk or by calling the library.
