Featured Artist of the Month
Patricia Jollimore

Patricia Jollimore is the featured artist for AAOS this month. Patricia is a photographer who lives in Ocean Shores. Her work is in contemporary fine art photography and digital collage, specializing in surrealism and whimsical art.

Patricia creates with imagery that can have a dark viewpoint, that directly responds to her surrounding environment. She uses everyday experiences as a starting point of her work. Although Patricia often features birds, butterflies, clocks and keys in her work, her favorite creatures and subjects are crows and ravens.

Patricia has been creating photographic composites since 2010. She photographs each element in a particular piece and then composites each image in a layering fashion until it comes together as a final piece of art.

She also restores and digitally colors old photographs from the early 1800's-early 1900's. These are then combined with her own photography to create a new and different art piece. Most of the vintage images in her work are Tintype photos. They are purchased and scanned in from large museums globally designed for artist to incorporate into their work. Patricia loves this part of her creations, as it is a way to include, preserve and recreate forgotten art and people.
